MILTON-FREEWATER, Ore., May 29.—Preparations for Strawberry Day are almost complete, and those who will attend are promised one of the best entertainments Milton has ever put on. The cold weather has held the fruit back until there will be plenty of strawberries. Athletic sports of all kinds, a baseball game in the afternoon, Balcher's Carnival Company, horse show with 21 classes, and a dance afternoon and evening in the opera house.

Thursday night the ladies of the Presbyterian church will entertain the ladies of all the other churches in Milton and Freewater at a reception and banquet in the gymnasium.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Spence and two sons, Clarence and Dale, expect to leave June 6 by automobile for Portland, stopping Tuesday night at the Crowns, and going from there to Crown point for the big celebration opening the Rose Festival, arriving in Portland the night of June 7. They will return home soon after the festival is over.

The members of the Christian Endeavor of the Presbyterian church held a very delightful social at the T. A. Williams home last Friday evening.

Arlie Rouanoin returned Saturday night from her school at Pendleton. She has been engaged to teach in the same place next year at an advance in salary.

Among those attending commencement of the graduating classes of Columbia College are Mrs. W. B. Reese of Gilbert, Idaho; S. E. Crow of Oakesdale, Wash.; Rev. J. E. McLaughlin of Spokane, Wash.; C. R. Howard of Walla Walla, Washington; Rev. D. N. Woods of Weston, Oregon, and W. C. Howard of Stanfield, Oregon.

Rev. Allan McRae addressed the members of the G. A. R. Sunday afternoon, as Bishop W. D. Lambuth of the M. E. church south was unable to do so as announced.

Milton Lodge No. 61, I. O. O. F. elected officers at its regular election night, who will take office July 1 for the next term. N. G. W. E. Daum, V. G. Victor Canfield, secretary, E. K. Henry, treasurer, J. F. Cradick, Freewater Lodge No. 202 elected I. M. Phipps, noble grand and Ambrose Winn, vice grand for the ensuing term. Earl Storm has reached Milton from his year's work at O. A. C. and he will have charge of a ranger station with headquarters near Toll Gate this summer, instead of the one on upper South Fork.

F. A. Sikes came to Milton the latter part of last week on business connected with the Farmers' Educational and Cooperative Union. J. D. Jones of the Self-Oiling Wheel & Bearing Company of Walla Walla made a business trip to the twin cities Monday afternoon.

In a close and exciting game Freewater Sunday afternoon took revenge on Walla Walla for the only defeat the locals have suffered this season. Score 3 to 1. A home run by Shelton on the first ball offered by the Walla Walla twirler was the only score until the fifth, when the score was tied. Then the lucky seventh brought in the two winning runs. Crimmins was steady and allowed but a few scattered hits.

Funeral services for Mrs. O. B. Stram, sister of W. E. Putnam, were held from the Advent Church at 3 p. m. Monday. Mrs. Stram died at St. Paul, Minnesota.

A. J. Kelley returned to Milton from Baker last week on account of the illness of his wife, who was operated on in the Walla Walla hospital. Mr. Kelley will probably remain for a couple of weeks or more.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wegge of Touchet were Twin City visitors Saturday afternoon.

Clem Berry was a Milton visitor the early part of the week, coming from his home in Montana.

Mrs. James Still left Monday night for Nanton, Alberta, to join Mr. Still who went some time ago. They will live on Mrs. Still's ranch near that city.

Wm. Anderson is seriously ill and confined to his bed at his home in South Milton.

DUAL CONFLICT MAIN
THEME OF STIRRING DRAMAStruggle Between Love and Duty
Wittily Handled in Mutual Feature.

Robert Gray, a brilliant young lawyer, has just been elevated to the bench, yet he is unable to save the father of the girl he loves in "I Accuse," a Mutual Masterpicture, deluxe edition, which will appear at the Pastime today. The father is rector of the village church, and although beloved by his flock he has one unconquerable failing—an ungovernable temper. Through evidence which is made to appear that the rector is guilty of killing the brother of the man who holds a mortgage upon his home. He is sent to prison, and his daughter will not marry the judge because of the cloud upon her family name.

Alexander Gaden is seen to advantage as the upright young judge, and Helen Martin appears as the girl who will not interfere with his political career by marrying him. After the rector had served some time in prison, the man who holds the mortgage on the house is tortured by memories of the past. In reality his brother had not been killed, but after the rector's furious attack which was supposed to have cost his life, the body of another man was substituted. Although paid to stay away, this brother finally returns and his discovery leads to the pardon of the prisoner, the marriage of the judge and the girl he loves and the imprisonment of the father's accuser.

In addition a laughing comedy entitled "Bungling Bill, Detective."

Coming Thursday and Friday, William Fox presents Hall Caine's "The Bondman," with William Farnum.

At the Alta.

Having "looked it over" earlier in the season, we predict that down at the Alta theater, a droll and exhilarating musical frolic called "September Morn" will loom up on Thursday, June 1st, which opens the La Salle Co.'s three days at that theater, with startling significance, as the best musical entertainment of its sort Pendleton has welcomed the past theatrical year. It is a regular freshest tide of real fun melody and dancing numbers, with genuine waves of comedy that push aside all the "folies" and reviews dredged over musical comedies and vaudeville and will come out flying the heartiest sort of welcome invitations to crown the theater for the sake of a whole lot of joyous japes and jokes, a whole lot of new songs and a whole lot of new girls, who sing and dance everything from the original tango to its latest evolution, the one-step trot.

"September Morn" is by Arthur Gillespie, who did the book and lyrics, and Aubrey Stauffer, a past master in the school of harmony, who composed the music. The combined whole was staged by Frank Tonnahill, Jr., with finishing touches added by Virgil Bennett, the veteran maitre d'hotel, who arranged the dance finales and gave the big chorus and corps of corymbes the needed grace and polish and tone and gingery gloss—upon possibilities which are never touched a minute with that marking care most musical comedies inflict. All of which is a perfectly routine way of saying that "September Morn" is simply a good show.

The organization is accompanied by all the original costumes, scenery and stage embellishments which made the long Chicago run of the piece a most notable one.

"September Morn" will be the opening bill of the La Salle Co., here and will be followed by "The Time, The Place and The Girl" and "My Best Girl."

ONE OF MARY'S SMILES
GOOD FOR TWO FARES

Miss Boland, soon to be seen in "The Stepping Stone," cracks a Heart of Stone.

Mary Boland, who is co-starred with Frank Keenan in "The Stepping Stone," Ince's Triangle-Kaybee feature, recently proved that she can win with her smile a person even more sophisticated than a film "fan."

One day, while working in "The Stepping Stone," Miss Boland, with her maid, started for the Culver City studios in an automobile. Halfway there, and near a streetcar line, the machine broke down. A car was coming, and anxious to arrive on time Miss Boland hastened to it.

Miss Boland reached for her pocket book, and discovered that it had been left in the car. The conductor became impatient. Miss Boland looked up, and smiled a big, beaming smile. The conductor smiled too. Also he reached down in his pocket, transferred some coins to his money changer, and then rang up the fares.

Miss Boland took his number, which the conductor did not suspect, and "turned him in" to the company, not for his failure to collect a fare, but for his gallantry. A few days later he received another reward from the star herself. It consisted of a box of cigars containing also a dime.

At the Temple tomorrow and Thursday.

SHOW'LD VISIT STATIONS

and analyzed to determine the elements of the soil carried away. Thus it is known what must be replaced.

So it goes at all of the experiment stations. Tests of seeds for the breeding of better varieties; the growing and devastation of better seed; tests for improved methods of cultivation and seeding; and better moisture conservation; introduction of forage and seed crops to restore as far as possible any delinquencies of the ground; the better knowledge of what fruits and vegetables to grow in given places, and how best to grow them; a study of the livestock problems, etc.—this constitutes the work at the several stations, and comparative demonstrations make a visit profitable beyond computation.

Speaking of the college at Corvallis, Mr. Moore said that the past year has been a highly successful one from every viewpoint. The registration for the full year reached 1657, including winter short course and summer school, the total is 2157. The graduating class numbers 283. Practically all of those desiring positions have been placed. Sixty graduates placed in 1915 have received salaries totaling $72,913 this year. Umatilla county sent 39 students to O. A. C. this school year. Though there is great need for a library building and extensive additions to the engineering buildings, the board at its recent meeting authorized but a single small structure, an experimental feeding laboratory. Economy is the watchword now, recommendations for the expenditure of more than $100,000 having been cut from the budget by President Kerr and the board. A proposal from different sources to change the name of the college with the unanimous disapproval of the board and the president. Plans for the future involve the most effective service possible at the school, special stress on the extension service, and greater publicity for the findings at the experiment stations. The new forestry building, which is to house much other work that congestions in other structures may be relieved, with its ready for occupancy September 1.
